

Statement on the Proposed Programme for Government.

Fridays for Future Ireland recognises the commitment made by the Proposed Programme for Government to address the Climate Crisis. While this plan still falls much too short of taking the radical action desperately needed, we want to acknowledge the step forward that has been taken in the inclusion of the Climate Crisis as a priority in this plan.

The incoming Government must show that this commitment will be translated from paper to reality. We will continue to strike until we see those in Government make a concrete commitment to Climate Justice, following the best available science, and ensuring Ireland's commitment to the 1.5 degree target. This would be a true commitment to "our shared future" and it is one which this Programme for Government has thus far failed to make.

No matter the outcome, Fridays For Future Ireland will continue to hold those in power accountable. We do not have time to wait for future Governments to take the action that is required, the Government must act now.
See you on the streets.
